Indications are not wanting, nor have they been concealed from the public view, that another attempt to reduce the rebel fortifications at Vicksburg will soon be made. it is not my province to know. I do know that the next character than those that have preceded it, and promises nore satisfactory results. It is enough to say that the ement has been committed to General Grant's conany single campaign during this war, yet has fought as many, if not more, than any other officer.

General Grant will take with him to Vicksburg the bulk of his immease army of West Tennessee—all veterans, tried in a score of fiercely contested fields. They bear Docelson," "Shiloh," "Corinth." &c., and they will not suder the lustre of these names to be dimmed by a dis-graceful deleat. McClernand's army will also take part in the movement, and will strive with desporation to wipe out the deep disgrace of their late repulse while under These combined armies will make a mighty host. They are composed exclusively of Northwestern and are mainly officered by men from the same re gion. They therefore all have personal interests at stake. welfare and prosperity of the States to which they be long require the free and uninterrupted navigation of the ssippi river. Aside, therefore, from any porely paterotic motive and the usual stimulus of the soldier inciting to heroic deeds, these men will fight for the re storation of personal advantages that have been taken from them. Hence the country will not be disappointed in expecting from them a record such as no army has yet achieved during this war.

When or how this army will renew the attempt to open this great river to the free navigation of the North west is not a fitting subject to enlarge upon. They may strike directly at Vicksburg, or they make a wide detour, and by some strategic movement compel the evacuation of the Gibraitar of the lower river without a struggle, as Columbus by his movements on the Cumberland and Tennessee rivers. Whatever the plan to be pursued may be, we now have an abiding confidence that it will meet with success. Apprentice generals are no longer in command in this direction, and we have become convinced of the magnitude of the task before us. Tried and skilful officers will henceforth lead to the work a force based upon actual knowledge of the strength with which they will have to contend.

pon acting knowledge of the strength with which they rill have to contend.

The naval squadron, under Admiral Porter, will be in-nited better prepared for hard work when another at-empt is made at the really formidable battories of Vicks-arg than it has ever herotofore been. on clad gunboats will be considerably increased, and he reinforcements thus received will be of a greatly inproved character.

The Chilicothe, one of the new boats, has already joined be squadron, she is a powerful side wheel craft, heavily dated, and carrying, in a stationary turret, two elevenated greatly in the state of the seven that the histories of the seven that the histories of the seven that the interest of the seven that the interest of the seven that the control of these Western rivers, and will test with rendrous effect upon the enemy's works. The Chilicothe are one clars of iron-clads are sadly deticient. The indianals left here last night to join the squadron, he is considered by many to be the finest gunboat affort in the West. She is provided with a double set of entities, and works side wheels as well as scrows. Here is an advertage of the most substantial and impostrable baracter. She has a stationary turret in front, like the chilicothe, in which she carries two eleven-inch guns, having ranges that sweep the horizon, and, in addition, is casemate; art, and provided with two nine-inch guns on her boine deck. By this arrangement she is better shapted to light down stream than any other vessel in the dect, as by anchoring in the ordinary way, with her head to the current, both her batteries are brought into direct play against the ebjective point, and in case of accident she is in position to steam away out of range without delay in turning about. She is capable of making the same speed of ordinary packet steamers, and, although carrying this heavy armanent and being unavaily beside haled, she draws but four and a half feet of same speed of ordinary packet steamers, and, attnough carrying this heavy armanent and being unousually heavily plated, she draws but four and a half feet of water. She was built at Cincinnart, where she has been detained for the last two mouths by the low stage of water on the talls at Louisville, which prevented her get ting down, the canal being too narrow for her accommo

The Lafayette is another new boat, which, though not wheel ateamer of great power and good speed, with a sharp prow, finished with solid timber and ron for the purposes of a ram. The Lafayette looks, externally, very much like the heatport, although mode larger. She has an extreme length of two hondred and ninety-two feet, with forty-five feet beam and thirty-six feet floors. Her hold is ten feet deep. Her engines of which there are two, are high pressure, with twenty-six mod cyanders and ten feet stroke. Her wheels are thirty three feet in diameter, with four-ten feet buckets. Her casemates are different from those of the lasticit, in having an men and the wood, after the fashion of the Essex. I am not permitted to mention the thickness of her iron armor nor of the insterned and the wood, after the fashion of the Essex. I am not permitted to mention the thickness of her iron armor nor of the inther composing the casemates upon which it is placed. This I may say: that the whole forms the mest inpregnable casemate of any vessel in the fleet. Beckets this formidable casemate, a heavy iron-plated builthead surrounds her boilers and engines, all of which are placed below the water line. Her great length gives ample room on the main deck for the accommodation of officers and crew, the apartments provided for whom are spacious, airy and comfortable. Her armament is the finest that has yet been put upon any sinp in this fleet. She carries two eleveninch guns, six nine and and two one bundred pounder Parrotts. The veteran Captain Walke—veters at the set as touching his services with this squadron—has been assigned to the command of this fine vessel. Captain Walke was one of the arct batch of officers that came West, and has had command of the flought that ship brewly and well in all the early battles, officers that came west, and has an accumulated of the Carondeiet during all our Western naval operations. He fought that ship bravely and well in all the carry battles, ran the blockade as Island No. 10 with her, and tackled the ram Arkansas, at the mouth of the Yagoo, has sommer, and would have sunk her or been sunk hmoself but that he grounded on a bar, and the Arkansas, cutting loose from him, performed her valiant feat of ranning through our entire speaffron uninjured. No officer in the feet has done more efficient service than has Captain Walke, and none are more deserving of the command that has been assigned to him.

The Eastport, that met with a about the contraction of the command that has been assigned to him.

none are more deserving of the command that has been assigned to him.

The Eastport, that met with a slight breakdown, owing to afsuit in her construction, has been thoroughly overhauled and strengthened, and is now afrost again as trim and pretty as ever. She has been greatly strengthened, and will not be littlely to meet with a similar mishap again. Her repairs have been directed by Lieutenant Commander Pholps, who will have command to fee hereafter. She is now taking on her armament, and will be ready to go below in a few days. She is to carry four nine-inch guns and two one hundred pounder Parrotts Her officers will not admit that she has any superior in the squadron, and are extremely jealous of the praise given to the Ladgette.

The Tuncumbia was isunched at New Albany about two months since, at which time her constructors promised that she would be ready for service within three weeks. But she has not made her appearance here yet, and it is a matter of doubt how much longer she will be delayed. She is the counterpart in all respects of the Indianch, and will stake the stake the stake again.

matter of doubt how much fonger she will be delayed. She is the counterpart in all respects of the Indianola, and will probably be as good a vessel. Lieutenant Commander Shrik, late of the Lexington, has been assigned to the command of her, and has aireadly gone to New Albany to expedite the finishing work upon her. The Chootaw, at St. Louis, is another new vessel, on the same plan as the Lafayette though somewhat smaller. She is now in a very advanced stage of completion, and will be not in a few weeks. Both sine and the Lafayette were planned by Commosters W. P. Perter and Acting Vounteer Laguegnat James Laming, and have been constructed under the superintendence or the latter named officer.

clear idea of what she will be when done.

The Chillicothe, Indianola, Eartpert, Larycite, and perhaps the Choctaw, will be available in another campaign against Vicksburg, and, owing to the improved character or these boats and the heavy calibre of their armaments, will be equal to the entire old feet, thus doubling the effective force of the naval squadron. Ex-Governor Baldwin, of Connecticut, is suffering at New Haven from a severe illness, which excites the apprehension of his friends.

Grant's lines of communication, orgent application was made to admiral Porter for a suitable gunboat to prote the points on the Mississippi river that seemed to be threatened. The admiral, not being faily acquaited with the exact situation of admiral, to being faily acquaited with the exact situation of admiral, then lying of Vicksburg, and ordered her too proceed with all haste to Island No. 10, with discretionary authority to guard any threatened p int between Metaphis and Cairo. In running up the river she struck a sing just above Memphis, which came up over her ensembles, tearing away the light upper work of the vessel and breaking her hog chain. This accident necessitated her lying by for repairs, which are now about completed, and, as the apprehended danger from the enemy has turned out to be only a great scare, she will return immediately to the squadron.

The Onio river and its tributaries, as well as the Mississippi below this point, are now what river men call bonk fall;" that is, the water is very high—up to the top of the banks. This fortunate rise has enabled the Pittsburg coal fleet to pass the falls at Louisville, and we now have an abundance of fuel, Hereafter the embarrassments that have been experienced this winter from the scarcity of coal will be provided against by always keeping enough on hand for at least six months' consumption, with due allowance for losses.

General McClernand's forces have landed on the Lousiana side, five miles below the mouth of the Yazoo river, and in full view of the city.

Two brigades were engaged when the captain left in opening the famous cut-off, of which so much was heard best summer.

In his opinion it would take 150,000 men to storm their fortifications at Vicksburg. Our gun and mortar boats could shell the city from where they lie, on the north side of the river bend; but even if it were entirely destroyed, the fortifications, which extend for miles back, would be as formidable as ever.

Movements and Operations of the Rebels.

The rebels have reoccupied Holly Springs, with a brigade of mounted in antry under General Whittleid, and two brigades of infantry under General Whittleid, and two brigades of infantry under General Tighiman. They are now repairing the Mississippi Gentral Railroad between Holly Springs and Tallabatchie.

The enemy are again intrenching themselves at Grenald. There are wild rumors along the line of the Momphis and Charleston Railroad of rebel raids and rebel invasions, but probably no immediate danger is to be apprehended of either. The roads are borrible and the streams too high, and the bettoms too extensively flowed to allow the movement of any considerable body of troops by land.

by land.

The country south of the railroad from Memphis to Grand Junction is infested by as pestilent a band of rascals as God ever allowed to curse any community. They rob, nurder and plunder with impunity. Sol. Street is the chief devil of them all. Last Wednesday they hung three negroes in the public square at Holly Springs, and shortly after brought out Simm H.ach, an employo in the Quartermaster's Department, who was left behind when we evacuated the town, and would have hung him also had not a licutenant, less devillab than the rest, cut him down just as the roce was tightening, and houghim also had not a lieuterant, less devilish than the rest, cut him down just as the rope was tightening, and gave him three days to leave town. His only offence was that he was a Dutchman and a federal employe. On Sunday last three members of the Seventh Illinois cavalry, who were out on a foraging expedition, were killed, and one taken prisoner.

General Hamilton arrived from Cairo this morning. There is nothing from below.

A Chance for River Men.

A Chance for River Men.

Rear Admiral D. D Porter has issued a call for additional men for his gunboat fleet, and, judging from the inducements offered, he ought to be able to procure all his wants. No person over forty years of age will be received, nor will any under eighteen without the written consent of parents, attested before a Justice of the Peace. The inducements to enter the navy on the Western waters are very great—promotion to command for those who earn it, good pay and subsistence, and comforts not to be found in the land service. Any one who may be disposed to enter the navy will have their actral mileage paid them on their arrival at Cairo, or any naval rendezvous, and after they are delivered on board the receiving ship. The enlistments will be for the war, and not less than one year. If for the war, two months' advance will be paid, when the person enlisting presents himself on board the receiving ship, and every one will be allowed to have a half-pay ticket for his family, from the day of enlistment. An additional examination by the surgeon will take place on board the receiving ship, and any one attempting to deceive will not enjoy the benefits setforth in this notice.

Another Union Victory in Tennessee— One Hundred Rebel Prisoners Taken. MURRIMISHOR, 1910. July 27, 1863. Quite a spirited affair cume off on Monday at Woodbury, twenty miles out on the Medinnville road, in which Palmer's division of Crittenden's corps won fresh laurels. Seven rebel regiments were stationed there as an out-nest.

Post.

Palmer concentrated his brigades at Readyville on Saturday and Sunday, without tents or baggare.

On Monday, hoping for a surprise, the Ninth Indiana were thrown out as skirmishers, closely supported by the Forty-first Ohio and Thirty-first Indiana. These troops were put in rapid advance, but the rebeis scented the movement, and by the time our force was full upon them they were in a promiscuous skedaddle. They gave some fight, however, wounding seven and killing two of the Forty-first Ohio and wounding two of the Ninth Indiana.

We killed their colonel commanding and thirty-four others, and took one hundred prisoners.

Important Capture in Arkansas.

To Major General Curie.

Colonel Harrison telegraphs from Fayetteville the success of a scout just returned from Van Buren, having captured the steamer Julia Roan and three hundred prisoners, about two hundred of whom were paroled. The scout consisted of one hundred and thirty men of the First Arkansas cavalry and Tenth Illinois cavalry, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Stewart.

No loss on our side. On that of the enemy, two killed and several wounded.

Police Intelligence.

About three weeks ago the office of a Boston broker named White was entered by burglars, and the safe robbed of bonds and other property valued in all at $8,000. A liberal reward was offered for the apprehension of the regues, while brokers and others were warned not to purchase any of the bonds. The police in this city were duly notified of the robbery, and every effort was made to ferret out the burghas who, it was believed, had fied to New York. After working diligently at the case for several days detective Mcord limitly traced one of the stolen bonds to the possession of a broker in Wall street, named Park, who, on being questioned in relation to the matter, said he purchased it of a broker named Thompson. The police on finding Thompson ascertained that he bought the groperty from a reguled English burglar named Joe Watson, who was thereupon promptly arrested on suspicion of being engaged in the robbery. The prisoner was brought before Justice Quackenhush at the Jefferson Market Folice Court, where for several days past the investigation has been going on with closed doors. Another broker, whose name we could not ascertain, is also mixed up with the affair, and may for several days past the investigation has even going on with closed doors. Another broker, whose name we could not ascertain, is also mixed up with the affair, and may find it rather difficult to come of unscathed, the atolen property consisted of two $1,000 bonds of the city of Portland, Maine, two $1,000 bonds of Abany, two $1,000 bonds of St. Louis and one $1,000 bonds of Roston, some certificates of stock and a gold watch. Since the examination has been progressing the police have recovered the Portland bonds from the President of one of the Boston banks, who had unwaitingly become the purchaser. The Albany bonds were also recovered under similar circumstances from an Albany banker, while the St. Louis bondshave been accounted for by Mr. Park, the Wall street broker already referred to. The police have not succeeded in recovering the footion body et, but hope to be able to do so in the course of a few days. The case is still unlier investigation and needs ventilating.

Per coura, the prisoner states that in a moment of generosity the complainant made her a present of the pin, and that when they parted yesterday morning Mr. Housman was aware that she had possession of it. On being asked what she did with the valuable, the prisoner frankly acknowledged that she sold it to a man named Barney for eighty dollars, and that eight dollars of the money she received proved to be counterfeit. Her principal object in selling the pin o soon after the presentation was, she said, to enable her to take her Sunday clothes out of pawn. The magistrate committed Emma for trad in default of bail. ### OPERATIC AND THEATRICAL.

Manager Grau is once more enabled to open the Academ of Music. Signor Briguoli and Signora Lorini have entire ly recovered from their late indisposition, and are quite ready to charm the lovers of music once more. The de sire to hear Miss Kellogg in some lighter opera than "Poliuto," which was chosen for her debut this season will be gratifled to night. Miss Kellogs will appear as Lady Henrietta, in the opera of "Marta." To add time, while Brignoti-all the more desired because he has most effective Plunket. The cast is a strong one, and the performance will doubtless be brilliant.

To morrow evening (Tuesday) the good people of Brook lyn will get what they do not deserve—that is, a grand operatic performance. They will have the whole of the opera of "Ernani," with Lorini as the prima donna inja ole which she sings most admirably, and in which she nsisting upon an encore of her first aria before it was ended—a want of discretion on their part most flattering to the artist. The opera of "Ernani" is attractive enough. On Wednesday evening we shall have "I Vepri Siciliani" in our Academy, with Lorini and Brignoli, and on Friday Mozart's "Don Giovanni," with a great cast. A Manager Grau is enabled to give us ere his departure for Boston. The "Giovanni d'Arca," over which we were prematurely gloating, and which we were to enjoy in priority of the London and Paris opera habitues, will go to render the Postonians happy. Our only chance to be delighted by the music of this chef d'œuvre is so far remote that it were unwise to dwell upon it.

Theatrical.

The theatres did a fair business last week; but the long continued and disagreeable storm prevented any very large audiences. Apropos, we recommend to the mana gers to clean the streets, or at least to make a decent path way in front of their theatres during such storms as that of last week, so that persons coming to the theatre in cars or stages will not be obliged to sit the whole evening with wet and muddy feet. It is also very desirable that the hour of commencing the performances should be advertised daily Hardly any two of our theatres begin at the same h and not more than two of them regularly advertise the hour at which they open. The public is greatly inconvenienced by such trifling omissions.

Wallack's programme for this week is even better than sual. This evening "The School for Scandal," the best comedy in the language and the best cast at this estab-lishment; Tuesday, for the last time, Mr. Lester Wallack's trifle, "Central Park;" Wednesday, the excellently acted "Road to Ruin;" Thursday, for the last time-pe the new comedy, "Bosom Friends;" Friday, "The Lady of Lyons," remarkable for Mrs. Hoey's splendid dresser aterday, "Secrets Worth Knowing," which was very successful last week, and in which Mr. Young and M Fisher are especially admirable. Wilkins' charming comedy, "Henriette," is in rehearsal, and will probably be produced next Tuesday. Several new pieces are in preparation.

Winter Garden this week. To night, for the benefit of diss Couldock, "The Advocate's Last Cause" and "One Touch of Nature' will be given, with Mr. Couldock as De Vernet and Penholder, and Cubas will dance "In Flor de Seville," and appear in the dress of an Arab boy and the second act of "The French Spy." This ought to be a most popular melange. On Friday evening Cubas takes a benefit. Next Monday evening Mr. Edwin Booth makes his restree. Mrs. John Wood's benefit on Friday evening last, at night Mrs. Wood reappears as Gertrude in "A Loan of a Lover" and as Sergeant Victoire in "The Invinci bles." The production of Mr. Charles Walcot's new version of Planche's famous fairy extravaganza, "The Fair One with the Golden Locks," has been nost pened until Menday next, and is positively announced for that date. Mrs. Wood will then enter upon a spirited ompetition with Barnum's Museum and Menagerie, and has already engaged Mr. Gotham, the Arabian Giant, Mr. Charles Walcot, Sr., the artistic giant, and numerous other curiosities. The "What is it"

"Leah, the Forsaken," still keeps the boards at Niblo's Garden. The audiences thus far have been very large, and the applause frequent and hearty. The audiences at the New Bowery are very large, and the pieces are put upon the stage in capital style. Mrs. W. G. Jones gives Mr. Eddy the best possible support, and is a most clever, talented

Mr. Fox has varied his programme a little at the Old Bowery theatre. A dramatic version of the opera, "Il Trovatore." the magnificent pantomime, "Jack and the Beanstalk," and the ancient drama, "The Old Oak Chest," are on the bills for this evening. February Term of the Law Courts.

February term will commence this day, but there is no cause calling for special notice, the most important suits having been frequently referred to; many of them, however, still slumber on the calendars, the war having very much retarded the civil business of the city.

The Oyer and Terminer will resume business on Wednesday. One of the most important trials on the calendar is that of Sullivan for the homicide of Thomas Byrnes, the Superintendent of Parks, which occurred in an encounter during the last Aldermanic election.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. The money market was quite active last week

though rates varied widely, according to borrow-and collaterals. The best borrowers in the street have as much money offered them at 5 and 6 as they can use and in their case margins are not closely scrutinized. On the other hand, the weak speculators who have been operating at the public board, in many cases to an extent wholly unjustified by their means, find it extremely difficult to borrow money at seven, with margins of ten to fifteen per cent. On dividend paying stocks, such as Central, Eric preferred. Michigan Central, Galena and Rock Island, bankers are generally willing to lend within fifteen to twenty per cent of the market price of the stock at not over 6 per cent per annum. But, on non-dividend paying shares, it has proved difficult to borrow, at any rate of interest, except on margins which few of the smaller speculators can afford to put up. In one word, money is abundant; but money lenders are cautious and distrustful of the advance in stocks and of the strength of the speculators who are operating in them. To a certain extent the prudent caution of the regular lenders has been defeated by the willingness of private capitalists to lend money on ten per cent margins on the ordinary speculative stocks of the day. Bank depositors are naturally anxious to make their balance earn interest overnight, and many of them now make a rule of depositing their money with some established stock firm at the close of bank hours. This practice is likely to become general. Every merchant or capitalist knows some broker who will take his bank balance at five or six per cent and give him stocks to secure the loan, with such a margin as to leave but little risk of loss. The recent attempt to check speculation in stocks by calling in loans and refusing to renew them, except with excessive margins, is neither novel nor can it be effectual. Devices of this kind are just as idle as Congressional attempts to restrain the legitimate prosecution of the banking business. The business of a banker is to lend money on adequate security at the market rate of interest. Whenever a banker-from extraneous reasonsdeclines to lend money on adequate security at the market rate of interest he departs from sound principles, and will lose money by the operation. It is just as ridiculous to deplore the present rise in stocks, and to try to prevent it by illegitimate combinations, as it was in 1857 to try to prevent duals, and people who try to evade them will even tually discover that they have lost their labor and their money too.

Gold advanced last week to 160, closing a about 159, and exchange advanced to 177, closing 176% a 177. The advance was caused by the nevitable prospect of more paper issues, and has been accelerated, on one side, by the failure o our military enterprises and want of confidence i the general government at Washington, and, or the other, by the speculation in gold which prevails in Wall street. Every loyal citizen desires to see the steady, progressive advance in gol-checked. But it cannot be done by violent means Political economy inexorably declares that issue of paper money must cause gold to advance price, and that the advance must be in direct pr portion to the amount of paper issues. This la cannot be evaded or defeated. It is possible check the advance of gold, either by victori of a striking and decisive character, or be as may revive public confidence in t government, or by a general understanding among bankers and money lenders that they w cease to carry gold for speculators. But the appears to be very little prospect of any chang at Washington, and, so far as the New York c banks and bankers are concerned, it is but pl truth to say that they are mainly responsible the recent remarkable advance in the preci metal. Though the rise in gold-from 130 to in about a month-has largely depreciated assets of the banks, and, in fact, rendered most them insolvent, the infatuation of our banks has been such that they have, almost invariab preferred to lend on gold instead of stocks or n chandise. The rate of interest on loans on gold l averaged one per cent less than that on loans stocks or merchandise, and the margin required usually been less. Hence the foreign speculato who have almost monopolized the gold busine have been enabled to put gold up to a premium 60, thus enormously depreciating the national corency and the assets of the banks, while speclators in stocks and merchandise have be seriously inconvenienced by a fictitions stringe in the money market. Our bankers don't seen understand that it is of no consequence whate whether the crazy operators in Wall street p 50 or 100 for Harlem, or Southern old, or Pra du Chien, while an advance of ten per cent gold is a national disaster. If speculators Wall street drive Harlem up to par no one suffer by the farce but the silly people who bu at the high price. But if by the aid of the ba gold is caused to rise to 200, the people at la are robbed of a substantial per centage on the property. In that robbery, which is proceed from day to day, the New York city banks accomplices in the first degree, and they ultimately be its most conspicuous victims. The House bill providing ways and mean the prosecution of the war has now gone to Senate, and the Finance Committee of that h have it under advisement. Some anxiety with gard to their action is entertained in comme circles. No apprehensions need be indulged the subject. The Senate may argue and refin any extent, by way of showing its independ and giving evidence of its devotion to sound fi cial principles; but in the end it must do two things-either stop the war and disband army unpaid, or pass a bill essentially similar that which has passed the House. There are two methods of raising money-one is by le the other by printing paper money. Loans ar selutely unavailable as a resource in any sl United States sixes of 1881-a most excellent rity, with interest payable in coin-are so at 92 a 93, and are maintained at this ficti price by a general unwillingness among holder ruin themselves by trying to sell. I these circumstances the Senate has a ver ple, though painful, duty to perform. It authorize the issue of legal tender or other money in amounts sufficient to defray the exp of the war. No one is ignorant of the evils this policy will involve. Prices will advance will rise, and the currency will depreciate. there is no alternative except the cessat the war, which, on the other hand, insure evils even greater than the ruin of th tire present generation of American citizens theorists will attempt to defeat the incvitable The Senate may follow the example of the Ho which followed the example set by Mr. Mer ger, the pretended Secretary of the imag Treasury of the so-called Confederate States may divide its issues of paper money into tender notes bearing no interest and notes bear interest and are not a legal tender.
